

The Dumfries and Galloway Cultural Partnership (DGCP) is a region wide collaboration working to bring together people, organisations, and ideas from across the arts, heritage, and creative sectors.

The DGCP is not a new organisation, but a partnership made up of four founding members: Dumfries and Galloway Council, DG Unlimited, Dumfries and Galloway Museums and Heritage Network and South of Scotland Enterprise.

We are a connector and amplifier helping people, projects, and places work better together across the cultural landscape.

We want to see a thriving, inclusive, and sustainable cultural ecosystem that reflects the people of Dumfries and Galloway and contributes to wellbeing, identity and the local economy.

ag cultural ag cultural ag cultural partnership dg cuitural dg cuitural dg cuitural partnership agcultural agcultural agcultural agcultural agcultural agcultural region to invite others in. Whether you are an artist, educator, volunteer, venue manager, policymaker, or someone passionate about local culture:

We are currently in an exciting period of development. Our structure and priorities are in place and now we are reaching out across the

We want to hear from you. Join the partnership. Let's take action together.

Strategy fo

DUMFRIES

Below: image of Phil Dowling and Sam Lomax of DG Woodlands, photo by Mlke Bolam

DGCP

Who we are - Vision - Team

- Action

Purpose

- Connect

Get involved

Archive

DGCP events Monthly Newsletter Stay in touch Sign up

Partner links

Legalities

home

Land Artist Jim Buchanan, photo by Colin Tennant

The DGCP exists to help make the Dumfries and Galloway Cultural Strategy real. By working together, we can ensure that culture is recognised and supported as essential to the region's wellbeing, identity, and economy. Culture and heritage is not just an add on, it is vital to how Dumfries and Galloway grows, invests and supports its people.

The DGCP will make it easier to meet people across arts, heritage, education, health, tourism, and community sectors. We want to reduce isolation, share ideas and opportunities and build strong relationships across the region.

The DGCP is an opportunity to engage the third, private and public sectors all in one space.

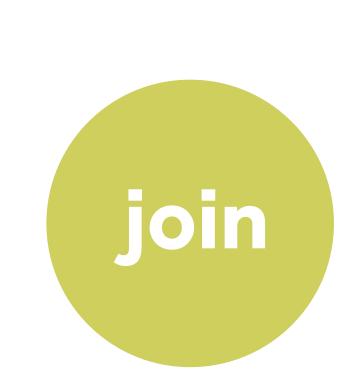

we want to hear from you!

Whether you're an artist, heritage professional, educator, volunteer, venue manager, or someone who cares about culture locally: your voice belongs in the room.

- Sign up to join the partnership and our mailing list
- Follow our four partners on social media
- Attend workshops, networking events, and future meetings
- Look out for new opportunities to get involved

To get involved and join Dumfries and Galloway Cultural Partnership complete our online form here.

DGCP

Who we are

- Vision - Team

- Action

Purpose

- Connect

Get involved

DGCP events

Monthly Newsletter

Archive

Stay in touch

Sign up

Partner links Legalities

home

Many people working in culture and heritage across Dumfries and Galloway feel isolated, especially freelancers, volunteers, and those in rural areas. Artists, creative organisations, heritage workers, educators, and wellbeing professionals often don't get the chance to connect and explore new ideas together. DGCP wants to build a more connected, confident cultural community by making it easier for people to meet, share, and collaborate.

Network event Venue info Date

Book

Network event Venue info Date

Book

Venue info Date

Network event

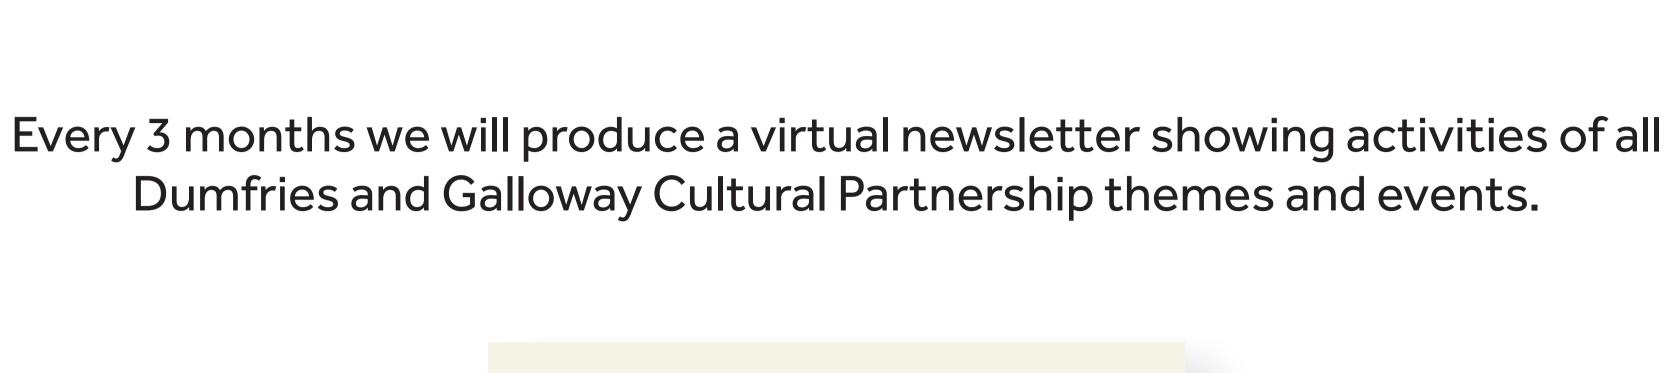

Book

cultural exchange

Edition 1 | Winter 2025

HERICUltural COSYSTEM

governance Visitor

CREATIVE

Learning

DGCP Newsletter 1,
December 2025

(ISSUU interactive version)

complete our online form here.

To get involved and join Dumfries and Galloway Cultural Partnership

ag cultural PARTNERSHIP

Who we are
- Vision
- Team

- Action

Purpose

- Connect

DGCP

Get involved

DGCP events

Monthly Newsletter

Archive

Stay in touch
Sign up

Partner links Legalities

home